Lotus Blossom NOV -2 1921

SHORT SYNOPSIS

Centuries ago, Leong Chong ^{is} sentenced to life imprisonment by the Emperor as he had invented the first clock which would do away with the use of the sacred bell. On his way to exile Chong is met by Quong Foo and his little daughter, Moy Tai, who gives him a lotus flower.

Moy Tai grew to beautiful womanhood and was loved by Quong Sung, a youth whom her father had adopted. Sung is sent to Prof. Lowe Team to complete his studies. He falls under the spell of the light woman, Tsze Sin. Moy Tai is grieved.

The sacred bell cracks. Foo is bade by the Emperor to cast a new bell. The metals refuse to mingle and Foo is given one more chance under penalty of death. Meanwhile a Tartar horde besieges the city. Sung kills the chief but is himself fatally wounded. He is found by Moy Tai. The second bell is worthless and Foo is sentenced to death. But Moy Tai remembers Chong. She goes to him and learns that the metals will fuse only by the addition of human flesh and blood. Moy Tai makes the supreme sacrifice for her father's honor and the new bell is cast.
